

Custom Video Conference Room Is Key for Attorneys At Law

For Bullivant, Houser & Bailey, SOLUTIONZ video solution offers unparalleled convenience and quality

The Company

Bullivant Houser Bailey PC is a law firm of more than 160 attorneys with six offices on the West Coast. Founded in 1938, the firm maintains offices in Portland, Oregon; Seattle and Vancouver, Washington; Sacramento and San Francisco, California; and Las Vegas, Nevada.

Bullivant is a West Coast litigation powerhouse due to their extensive courtroom experience and ability to achieve early, favorable, and cost-effective results on behalf of clients, which range from small businesses to Fortune 100 corporations. In addition to commercial litigation, the firm also excels in a wide range of domestic and international business transactions, including banking, corporate formation and governance, mergers and acquisitions, taxation, real estate, franchising, corporate finance and securities, public and private offerings, periodic reporting, estate planning, and intellectual property.

The Need

Bullivant was constructing a new office facility and needed a custom designed, permanent video conference solution for their new conference room that would give them unparalleled convenience and quality.

They also sought a clean, organized solution, where wiring and equipment were effectively hidden when not in use, to replace their current rolling-cart mounted video system.

The Solution

Before the walls were fully constructed or the flooring laid, SOLUTIONZ was on-site installing cabling, connectors, and in-ceiling speakers into the framework of the room.

During Phase II of the integration, SOLUTIONZ added a Polycom VSX 8000 system with a plasma display, a microphone array, a camera, and a touch-panel hand-held remote system.

When this new video system is not in use, the unit and its accessories are neatly stored out-of-sight within a built-in cabinet.

The Benefits

The Bullivant conference room is now outfitted for exceptional video conferencing, and each video conference attendee in this mid-to-large size conference room can see, hear, and be heard from virtually any position within the room.

Bullivant was so pleased with the work that SOLUTIONZ provided that they integrated SOLUTIONZ video conference units into each of their six work offices, as well as their home offices.

According to Bullivant's former telecommunications analyst, Judy Gazley,

"It has been more than a pleasure to work with SOLUTIONZ over the years."
